Physical Description

18 m of documents, 6m of plans and drawings, and 3m of photographic materials.

Scope and Content

The majority of the papers are related to Sir Arthur Evans's archaeological research in Europe, and about half of these concern his excavations at the Palace of Minos at Knossos in Crete (1900-1931). Some personal papers are also included, most of these donated to the Arthur J Evans archive in 1985 by his great-nephew, Arthur L. Evans.

The original ordering of the archive is mostly unknown as a result of subsequent reorganisation and cataloguing. The papers have therefore been ordered by type of material and then by type of document, and within these groupings by research topic. Although this is an imposed structure, it does not seem to be inconsistent with what is known about Evans's working practices. The first section is the professional papers (AJE/1), which has been subdivided into categories of correspondence, notebooks and diaries, manuscripts and lectures, administrative documents, research materials and notes, newspaper cuttings, and offprints and books. The other sections are personal and family papers (AJE/2), photographs (AJE/3), drawings and plans (AJE/4), publication plates (AJE/5) and exhibition materials of Sir Arthur Evans (AJE/6). The final sections relate to the creation of the archive: work on the archive (AJE/7), material donated after 1985 (AJE/8), The final section (AJE/9) consists of facsimiles, transcriptions and translations which aid research on the archive.

Administrative / Biographical History

Sir Arthur John Evans (1851–1941), archaeologist, numismatist and museum director, is perhaps best known as the excavator of Knossos, Crete (1900-1931), and for the 'discovery' of the Minoan civilization. He also made important contributions across a range of fields including archaeology, anthropology, ethnology, numismatics and the arts, as well as Balkan politics. He was Keeper of the Ashmolean (1884-1908) and during his 25-year keepership he oversaw its transformation to a major museum of archaeology and art. He was also a meticulous recorder of his life's work, and bequeathed a vast documentary archive along with his object collections to the Ashmolean Museum after his death in 1941.

He was born at Nash Mills, Hemel Hempstead, on 8 July 1851, the eldest son of the distinguished prehistorian, numismatist and businessman, Sir John Evans (1823–1908), and was educated at Harrow and Oxford. He travelled across Europe in the 1870s, visiting the Balkans in 1871 and 1872, Scandinavia in 1873, and Germany and Bosnia and Herzegovina in 1875. He became a committed supporter of Slav freedom and the creation of an independent Yugoslavia. In 1877 he returned to Dalmatia as a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. He married Margaret Freeman (1848–1893) in 1878 and settled in Ragusa (modern Dubrovnik). In 1882, Evans's open support of the nationalist Slav cause led to his imprisonment and subsequent deportation by the Austrian authorities. Evans and Margaret returned to Oxford in 1882/1883.

He continued to travel and conduct archaeological research abroad in the eastern Balkans, Greece and Italy after his appointment to the Ashmolean Keepership. He was a pioneer in identifying sites of Roman cities and roads in Bosnia and the region of Macedonia. He mapped the Roman road system and carried out modest excavations in the Balkans (e.g. Risan in Montenegro). He travelled in the Caucasus and Crimea but from 1893 onwards his interests shifted to Greece and especially Crete.

Between 1894 and 1899 he travelled extensively in Crete in search of evidence for pre-alphabetic writing in the Aegean – a search that led to the identification of three systems of writing that Evans called Cretan Hieroglyphic, Linear A and Linear B. From 1900 and until 1931 he conducted excavations at Knossos, bringing to light the largest palace site known to date in the Aegean and adding a new chapter in the history of archaeology and art of the Mediterranean.

In 1901 he was elected fellow of the Royal Society and in 1936 he received the prestigious Copley medal, among many other academic and scientific distinctions. During WW I, he was president of the Society of Antiquaries (1914–19) and of the British Association (1916–19), and as a trustee of the British Museum helped, in 1918, to rescue that institution from the Air Board, and hasten its rehabilitation.

Arthur Evans died in 1941 at the age of 90.

Conditions Governing Access

Most material is open for consultation, except for specified fragile papers where access is restricted for conservation reasons. A written application is required for requests to access these restricted materials, and for papers where facsimiles have been published or made available on-line. The application letter should provide the justification for direct access to the original material and will be assessed by the Departments of Conservation and Antiquities.

For information regarding making an appointment to consult archives held by the Department of Antiquities please see: <https://www.ashmolean.org/antiquities-study-centre>

Evans bequeathed his archaeological papers to the Ashmolean, University of Oxford, and they were deposited at the museum after his death in 1941 by his half-sister, Dame Joan Evans. Copyright in the material was assigned to the Ashmolean at the same time. This includes copyright in the Knossos excavation diaries kept for Evans by his employees Duncan Mackenzie, Theodore Fyfe and Christian Doll.

The personal papers and diaries were initially passed to Evans's nephew, John Dickinson Evans, and to his half-sister, Dame Joan Evans. The papers were all later acquired by a great-nephew, Arthur L. Evans, who made a formal gift of them to the Ashmolean Museum in 1985. Copyright in the papers was assigned to the Ashmolean. This donation is referred to below as the 'South Africa gift'.

Other Finding Aids

Conditions Governing Use

The Ashmolean Museum retains copyright of all archival material, except where otherwise noted, and all researchers are asked to sign copyright disclaimer forms listing the archives consulted.

Photography for research purposes is permitted with the permission of the Curator or the Study Room Supervisor. The Ashmolean Museum retains copyright of all images, and written permission from the Picture Library is needed for any form of publication or non-research use. See the Photography permit here

Custodial History

There were several attempts to list and rebox parts of the archive during the 1980s and 1990s, most notably by Ann Brown and by Dr Nicoletta Momigliano. This resulted in the preparation of detailed lists and summaries of the correspondence and much of the material now listed in AJE/1 and AJE/2. However, no comprehensive work was possible until the late 1990s when the Getty Foundation funded Dr Susan Sherratt to undertake a rehousing and reidentification project of the entire Arthur Evans archive for both preservation and access purposes. Dr Sherratt was also able to enhance and edit the earlier lists and transcripts. In the early 2000s she was awarded additional funding by the Oxford Digital Library (Mellon Foundation) for the digitisation of the Knossos drawings and plans. This digital project is available online at <https://digital.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/> .

The first overview catalogue of the Sir Arthur Evans Archive and other materials related to the Knossos excavations was produced by Dr Yannis Galanakis in March 2012, funded by the Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation. This report revealed the vast scale of the archive and related materials, and the potential for them to contribute to research on a broad range of fields as well as for understanding the site of Knossos. The overview catalogue provided a structure for the description of the archives for the first time. It also highlighted the need for a detailed catalogue of the contents at item level.

In 2016, the Department of Antiquities invited Dr Senta German to undertake the cataloguing of the Sir Arthur Evans archive, in collaboration with Alison Roberts (Curator for European Prehistory collections) and Alexandra Greathead (Paper Conservator). This resulted in the groupings of the present catalogue. In 2019 Dr Andrew Shapland brought together the previous lists with this catalogue to create an item level catalogue. Since 2021 he has been extending this catalogue with the assistance of Jasmin Payne, alongside digitisation of individual items. This work has been funded by The Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation, The Headley Trust, The Malcolm Hewitt Wiener Foundation and Dr Nicola Coldstream.

SUBJECTS: Late Celtic urnfield, Aylesford; English archaeology; burials; Robert Munro on the Lake Dwellings of Europe; La Tène; Late Celtic art; bronzes; Christian manuscripts; sculptured stones; Elveden tankard; Irish manuscripts; Society of Antiquaries; Lullingstone bowl; Gate Ford, Needham Market, Suffolk; Mr Maw; early sculptured stones of Scotland; Society of Antiquaries of Scotland.

ABSTRACT: Letter from John Romilly Allen, thanking Evans for the copy of his Aylesford paper ("On a Late-Celtic Urn-Field at Aylesford, Kent", Archaeologia LII (1890)), and suggests it is "one of the most important contributions to English archaeology...for some time". Says he has just been reading Munro's new book on the Lake Dwellings of Europe and has been struck by the similarity between the art of La Tène and so-called "Late Celtic" art in this country. He hopes Evans will bring out a work with illustrations of the different finds. Allen's chief interest is the artistic continuity between the bronzes of the "pagan period" and the art of the Christian manuscripts and sculptured stones: e.g. "obvious connection" between circular designs on Elveden tankard and those found on Irish manuscripts. Wishes the Society of Antiquaries would get the Lullingstone bowl properly illustrated. Allen knows of a bowl of similar class from Gate Ford, Needham Market, Suffolk, now in the possession of Mr Maw of Needham. Could Evans find out whether this bowl still exists? Allen is now working on the early sculptured stones of Scotland.

SUBJECTS: British School at Rome (Committee); British School at Athens; teaching; research; publication; sites – Lebda (Leptis Magna); people – Thomas Ashby; people – Mrs (Emily) Strong; people – James Rennell Rodd; sites – Tripoli; Arabic

ABSTRACT: Letter from John ff. Baker Penoyre, commenting on an "official document" conveyed in preceding letter (AJE/1/1/1/10/1), and hoping that the scheme of co-operation may be of some use. The British School at Rome opposed to taking on excavation of Leptis Magna (Lebda) because it sees teaching, research and publication (rather than excavation) as its main strength. Taking on the excavation of as important a site as Lebda would jeopardise the recent success of the School in these areas. However, the offer of cooperation is genuine. Ashby will go to Tripoli in May to collect information, and Penoyre himself is attracted to the scheme and is willing in principle to devote his year's leave in 1912 to Lebda.

SUBJECTS: Sasson's shop (179 Wardour Street); stone memorial tablet (Greek inscription); Ashmolean; K.O. Müller, Denkmäler der alten Kunst, Oxford; Bodleian catalogue; rattle attached to goad (kentron) or whips in Greece; Greek islands; Swedish Lapland; E.B. Tylor; clay pillows (headrests) from Kahun; Margaret Evans.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Henry Balfour, who tells Evans that he has seen in Sasson's shop in Wardour Street a Greek memorial stone with inscription, priced £4, which he thinks he might like to know with a view to purchasing it for the Ashmolean. Asks if there is a copy of K.O. Müller's Denkmäler in the Ashmolean or elsewhere in Oxford. He wants to refer to it concerning the Greek use of a rattle attached to a goad or whip for driving horses or oxen. Chain rattles are still used in the Greek islands and Evans may have seen something similar in Swedish Lapland. Tylor has told Balfour that Evans is going to let Balfour have one of the clay pillows (headrests) from Kahun. Has heard that Evans will be leaving on his travels soon.

AJE/1 Finding Aid (Last updated: 25/01/2024)

SENDER'S ADDRESS: Anthropological Department, Museum, Oxford

LANGUAGE: English

RECIPIENT: Evans, Arthur

DATE: 21/11/1890 (?) ('Friday' cf. AJE/1/1/1/1/1)

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1 Letter: 3pp (1 sheet folded, 1 page blank)

SUBJECTS: Aylesford urnfield paper; "sistra" from lake dwellings; Ashmolean; clay pillow (headrest); clay objects from lake dwellings; fire drilling in Bosnia.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Henry Balfour, sequel to AJE/1/1/1/1/1. Balfour thanks Evans for his letter and for his paper on the Aylesford urnfield cemetery ("On a Late-Celtic Urn-Field at Aylesford, Kent", Archaeologia LII (1890)). Discusses his musings about "sistra" from lake dwellings, and whether these might have been used in the same way as the rattles which were the subject of his earlier letter (AJE/1/1/1/1/1), but decides probably not. Announces his intention of looking at the Ashmolean example. Thanks Evans for the clay pillow (headrest) (cf. letter AJE/1/1/1/1/1), and asks him if certain clay objects from the lake dwellings might have been used in a similar way. Asks Evans about the survival of drilling fire in Bosnia and if there is any chance of getting specimens of the drills.

SUBJECTS: Ibiza; Phoenician cemetery; people – Antonio Vives of Madrid; Cypriot antiquities; people – Miss Dorothea Bate

ABSTRACT: Letter from William Bateson, who has visited Ivija [Ibiza] and wants to know if its archaeological importance appreciated – lots of digging going on. Has seen Phoenician cemetery and museum. Excavations by Antonio Vives of Madrid, who gave him a lamp (drawing in letter). Suggests visiting and obtaining antiquities. Compares with Cypriot antiquities. Came to the island to accompany Miss D. [Dorothea] Bate who is digging for cave fossils but didn't find anything.

SUBJECTS: Aylesford; Paris; Société des Antiquaires de France; "late-Celtic"; Gaulish period; Champagne; Baye; private collections of Gaulish antiquities; Gaulish cemetery; oenochoae; Bulletin monumental; human heads as torque ornaments; Bulletin de la Société des antiquaires de France.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Baron J. de Baye, cf. AJE/1/1/1/13/2. De Baye congratulates Evans on his Aylesford publication ("On a Late-Celtic Urn-Field at Aylesford, Kent", Archaeologia LII (1890)). Says he is going to return to Paris shortly, and that there will be elections of corresponding foreign members of the Société des Antiquaires de France, with Evans's name prominent among the list of candidates. It would be useful if de Baye could present, on Evans's behalf, his Aylesford report and emphasise the importance of his discoveries. De Baye hopes Evans will come to Baye in Champagne to study his and other private collections of Gaulish antiquities. While Evans has been researching at Aylesford, de Baye has been excavating a large Gaulish cemetery. Several oenochoae found in tombs in Champagne, of which de Baye has published two in Bulletin monumental for 1875. Also mentions human heads as torque ornaments and refers to Bulletin de la Société des antiquaires de France 1884-1885.

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1 Letter: 3pp (1 sheet folded, 1 page blank) + 1 Envelope

SUBJECTS: Société des Antiquaires de France; Aylesford burials; M. E. Flouert; Gaulish period; Kent.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Baron J. de Baye, who tells Evans that he had the honour of presenting his memoir on the burials of Aylesford ("On a Late-Celtic Urn-Field at Aylesford, Kent", Archaeologia LII (1890)) to the Société des Antiquaires de France at yesterday's meeting. His colleagues have asked him to send their appreciation of his book and offer their congratulations for his discoveries. M. E. Flouert, who is especially interested in the Gaulish period, considers Evans's excavations at Aylesford as extremely valuable for "our" national archaeology.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Greville J. Chester, telling Evans that he has been to see Petrie's collection of things from San el Hagar (Saïs) which, after the British Museum has had its pick, will be divided amongst various Museums which subscribed to the excavations. Hopes Evans will put in a claim. Also mentions a few fragments from Tel el Yahoudieh which he wishes could join those already in the Ashmolean. Says when he next comes to Oxford he will bring a few things for the Museum. Jowett has given an appearance of interest in the Museum, but this probably does not mean much. In a postscript he hopes Evans will not give up the old pictures.

SUBJECTS: "Primitive Pictographs and a prae-Phoenician script...", Journal of Hellenic Studies 1894; Cretan pictographic script; Mycenaean question; Crete; article on Melian island stones (Athenische Mitteilungen 11); milk amulets; northern Europe; thunder stones; J. Grimm, Deutsche Mythologie; Johann Mannhardt, Germanische Mythen; Melos; O.(?) Rossbach; Archäologische Zeitschrift 1885 or 1886; Lydian inscription; Ashmolean Museum; Aegean script

ABSTRACT: Letter from Ferdinand Dümmler, who tells Evans that he has just read with great interest his paper in the Journal of Hellenic Studies on the Cretan pictographic script. It becomes ever clearer that the solution to the Mycenaean question lies in Cretan soil. Hopefully Evans's interesting researches have shed further light on the question, and hopefully they will hinder the Cretan antiquaries, whether in the guise of robbers or dilettantes, from damaging the existing material. He would like to make Evans aware of a small article on Melian island stones which he has published in the 11th volume of Athenische Mitteilungen, p. 170 ff. – unfortunately, he does not still have a copy. He has met with the same superstitions on Melos as Evans has in Crete, namely that the stones are milk amulets. Later it has occurred to him that this belief must be connected with the holes bored through them. Pierced stones are often valued in Northern Europe as thunder stones, and with them are directly connected all kinds of superstitions with regard to the milk flow. Proof in J. Grimm's Deutscher Mythologie and Mannhardt's Germanische Mythen under "Donnerkeil, Donnerstein". Of the 20 stones which he was able to collect on Melos, one, with which he seals this letter, is prehistoric. He has already thought about script as a result of Evans's drawing. Does Evans have any interpretation of Athenische Mitteilungen 11, pl. VI no. 17? The same representation appears several times. Cf. also Roszbach in Archäol. Zeit. 1885 or 1886. He looks forward with great anticipation to the progress of Evans's researches. Added as a postscript: He wonders that Evans has not published the Lydian inscription in the Ashmolean Museum on this occasion, as it has great similarity to the second group of Aegean scripts.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, regarding French misbehaviour concerning the site of Goulas, which was considered to be 'English territory'. Halbherr urges Evans to complete negotiations for Knossos and get hold of Kato Zakro and Galania Charakia ('s tin orthin petran). He stresses the importance of Kato Zakro for international relations in prehistory and of Galania Charakia for the light it may shed on an Eteocretan shrine of Dictaeon Zeus at Praesos. Evans can dig at Praesos, for the Italians are primarily interested in Gortyna and are also planning a project on the monuments and history of Venetian Crete. (See N. ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, mentioning that the sites 'occupied' by French archaeologists are only Goulas and Itanos, and not Praesos. Halbherr urges Evans to get hold of Kato Zakro and Galana Charakia. He himself hopes to excavate Gortyna, though this is in 'English territory'. The letter also refers to problems in having a new Cretan archaeological law passed within the year. (See N. ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, regarding the new Cretan Archaeological Law, his researches in West Crete (Apokorona and Kissamo districts) with Savignoni and De Sanctis, his forthcoming excavations at Gortyna and Italian applications to excavate at Phaestos, Prinias, Axos, and Eleutherna. Discusses Hazzidakis' and Xanthoudides' appointments as Ephors, the fact that Hazzidakis will go to Goulas with Demargne and the forthcoming exploration of the Selinos and Sphakia districts by De Sanctis. Halbherr asks whether Evans could order a tent from Silver & Co. and have it sent to Crete and whether, in the meantime, he could use Evans' tent. (See N. ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, promising that Pernier will send him an account of this year's excavations at Phaestos, along with a plan of the palace. Halbherr will return to Crete soon. Rest of letter concerns an incident involving a disagreement between the Italians and Cretans as to who has the right to excavate what the Italians regard as the cemetery of Phaestos. (See N. ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, describing the fallout of the incident recounted in the previous letter (AJE/1/1/1/67/10). The Italian consul sent back to Crete with instructions from the Italian government, 1) asking for an apology from the Cretan government, 2) all material excavated by Xanthoudides at the Phaestos cemetery to be returned to the Italians, 3) Xanthoudides to stay well away from the Italian excavations. Halbherr suggests that, if the Cretan government refuses to agree, they could try to threaten the withdrawal of the Italian gendarmerie. English should support Italian position. SUBJECTS: writing systems; Candia [Herakleion]; Herakleion Museum; fire; Nea Eleutheria; people – Prince George; The Times; Crete; people – Paribeni; sites – Haghia Triada; sarcophagus

ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, thanking Evans for his letter and for photographs of latest finds, expressing Halbherr's interest in Evans' preliminary conclusions on the tablets and various writing systems. Also reports the attempt to set fire to the Museum in Herakleion and encloses a relevant cutting from the newspaper Nea Eleutheria [still with the letter]. Halbherr urges Evans to write to the Times about it. He concludes by mentioning that Paribeni had sent Evans a preliminary report on the latest excavations and that his own publication of the Haghia Triada sarcophagus will be delayed. (See N. Momigliano, "Federico Halbherr and Arthur Evans: an archaeological correspondence (1894-1917)" Studi Micenei ed Egeo-Anatolici 44:2 (2002), 290-2)

[Summary of contents of cutting from Nea Eleutheria:

On the previous Wednesday at 10 o'clock somebody tried to set fire to the Grand Barracks. Only part of a chair was burnt. All the authorities were alerted, and investigations have taken place (results as yet unknown). There is an urgent need to build a proper museum, and money has already been given for that purpose. Meanwhile the Barracks are used to house all the antiquities and, as a result, there is no security. They say the museum has not yet been built because of the tension between Greeks and Muslims. However, this raises a lot of questions. The state owns a number of sites where a museum could be built. If something happens to the archaeological collections, whose fault will it be? Something must be done quickly.]

ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, that hes is about to leave for Crete, to be joined in February by Stefani. They intend this year to complete the study of the Haghia Triada excavations, and intends to continue his epigraphical research on the Greek inscriptions of Crete. Would like to discuss various questions with Evans at Candia [Herakleion] and Knossos, and asks when he is coming to Crete. Wonders if excavations will be able to continue as before now that the union of Crete with Greece is a fait accompli. Says that this is a particularly critical question for "us Italians", given the current political situation. Pernier may face difficulties. The first volume of Annuario, to appear in January, will contain an account of Pernier's excavations at Prinias. (See N. Momigliano, "Federico Halbherr and

Droop; people – J. Hazzidakis; people – S. Xanthoudides

ABSTRACT: Letter from Federico Halbherr, saying that he has succeeded in obtaining the photographs of the Boxer Rhyton, which Evans wanted, and is adding a photograph of a plaster cast. Talks about Evans' work on his nine Minoan ceramic periods, which will particularly useful for coordinating the study of the pottery from Phaestos and Haghia Triada. Hopes, as a result of this, that the publication of the results from Haghia Triada will be made more concise. He and Stefani currently occupied in studying and making copies of the Greek inscriptions of Crete for the corpus which the Missione italiana intends to publish. Intend to spend a month at Gortyn; have already covered the material in Candia [Herakleion] and Canea [Chania]. From Gortyn they will go to Haghia Triada to complete the study of the topography, stratigraphy and architecture of the Villa and the town. Intend to make an excursion to Lyttos for inscriptions. Has seen the work that Droop has done for Evans. Looks forward to seeing Evans in Candia [Herakleion]. Nothing new in the Museum: the state of the objects leaves much to be desired. Greetings from Hazzidakis and Xanthoudides. The Annuario is still delayed: the first volume will not appear until the end of April. (See N. ABSTRACT: Letter from Henry R. Hall, to Evans as President of the Society of Antiquaries, regarding Hall's work for the Political Service in Mesopotamia (examining state of preservation of archaeological sites). Help has been given by various British military officers, and the desirability of an official vote of thanks to administrative and military officers from the Society of Antiquaries (of London) for their efforts to conserve the Mesopotamian monuments so soon after British takeover. Hall's excavations at Tell Muqaiyir [Ur] for the British Museum, and his workmen, in particular the racial, linguistic, and religious mixture. Discusses finds and the question of reporting the excavation results to the Society of Antiquaries. ABSTRACT: Letter from James Penrose Harland, concerning rumours reported to Evans that Harland had carried off the records of the German excavations on Aigina in 1921, stating that this charge is groundless. He had permission from Curtius and others to examine the finds in the Aigina Museum, and had no interest in their notes, demonstrates his regular communications with the Germans and asks Evans to help him scotch this groundless and malicious charge. [Harland was author of Prehistoric Aigina: a history of the island in the Bronze Age (1925)]

ABSTRACT: Letter from Joseph Hazzidakis, sending Evans the new regulations which Europe has imposed on the Sultan for Crete. Complains that these are being interpreted too much in favour of the Turks. Halbherr has encouraged him to prepare an antiquities law for Crete, which cannot be done until a fair settlement for Crete ensures that the political troubles do not return, and only then will it be possible for Evans to make the necessary arrangements in order to excavate at Kephala.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Freiherr Friedrich Hiller von Gärtringen, concerning the transcript of an inscription from Megalopolis[?] which Evans has sent to Hiller von Gärtringen [Gaertringen]. Apologises to Evans for not replying to his letter in as perfect English as Evans writes German, but prefers to use his own language in order to thank him for his kindness. Sadly, he has recently exchanged too few letters with his esteemed friend Munro, and therefore his knowledge of English is not sufficiently perfected. So, he thinks he can make himself more intelligible in his own language – for verbal exchanges with Holleaux and Dürrbach [Duerrbach] they have long since introduced the modern Greek language (and not the katharevousa of Mr Mistriotes) as an international tongue. He is delighted with Evans's transcript; on account of the son he freely inclines to endorse Wilhelm's opinion that it was Roman (after the 2nd century BC), also if ge(no)menon is correct, which is very likely. The "Phlyake" amuses him greatly. Surely this is an Arcadian! How he has fought in Stymphalos for the preservation of the 3 fragments and large inscribed stele seen by Marthe! These rogues have beheaded the Polybios of Kleitor (Wolters also now knows about him), presumably because he was a Greek and not an Albanian or a Slav. – What is not taken away by the people goes to ground. The antiquities legislation is well meant, but its practice is dire! He has not heard from Corfu for a long time. The composition of the pediment seems to be becoming clear, but he does not know whether the temple itself has been found. His wife and he are continuously thinking about the Arcadian landscape, and long to be able to return there, especially since the epigrapher would have less to do there than elsewhere. Herr Loring has chosen the best part! He wishes he had Evans's eye for landscape. Even Dr Lattermann (now for one year a volunteer in Austria in the 48th Infantry Regiment), who has surveyed Orchomenos, Methydrion, Thisoa, Teuthis and several other sites, visits him. Hopefully he will soon succeed in presenting this. With gratitude on the second – or third (despite Cleomenes' heroic death) foundation of Megalopolis.

ABSTRACT: Letter from David George Hogarth, regarding relationship between Evans/the Cretan Exploration Fund and the British School at Athens. Discusses Hogarth's excavation methods learnt from Petrie and attitudes concerning funds and exportation of antiquities. The Greeks are very sensitive to excavations conducted by foreigners and the exportation of antiquities (see Lord Elgin), with the main difficulties for excavations in Crete being 1) funds and 2) acquisition of land (the latter in particular), and lack of government land in Crete.

9. avril Ecole française d'Athènes

Cher Monsieur Hogarth

Je ne sais de quel malentendu vous voulez parler: s'il en existe un, ce ne peut être que du fait de ceux qui, avertis, comme tous les archéologues des 1891 (B.C.H. p. 452) de nos projets sur Cnossos, ont un peu tardé à s'informer si nous y donnions suite: je prends note avec plaisir de ce retour à de procédés plus courtois et j'entrerai volontiers en relations avec M. Evans, s'il voulait me faire l'honneur de m'écrire.

Agréez, cher Monsieur Hogarth, l'assurance de mes meilleurs sentiments.

T. Homolle]

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1 Letter: 2pp (1 sheet, incomplete)

SUBJECTS: people – George Macmillan; people – Percy Gardner; prehistoric craniology; people – R.C. Bosanquet; Annual of the British School at Athens; people – A. Wilhelm; people – Walter Leaf; sites – Praesos; people – R. Douglas Wells

ABSTRACT: Letter from David George Hogarth, the final page of a letter from Hogarth to Evans. Mentions that "it will be a shock to Percy Gardner to find prehistoric craniology in the Holy of Holies". Talks about receiving photographs from Bosanquet for his article on Praesos in the Annual of the British School at Athens ("Excavations at Praesos I" published in vol. VIII (1901-02)), and also a paper from Wilhelm (A. Wilhelm, "An Athenian decree" published in vol. VII (1900-01)). Complains that the Praesos paper is already heavily illustrated with R. Douglas Wells' drawings, and complains about Bosanquet's "casual methods".

ABSTRACT: Letter from David George Hogarth, regarding the enclosed draft of a paper on Cretan sites (probably a programme of the Cretan Exploration Fund). Discusses Hogarth's and Dörpfeld's [Doerpfeld's] claims to Palaikastro (letter from Dörpfeld [Doerpfeld] originally enclosed, with request to return to Hogarth), Bosanquet's and Marshall's exploits at Palaikastro (see David W.J. Gill, "Collecting for Cambridge: John Hubert Marshall on Crete" BSA 95 (2000), 517-26) and the poor quality of Bosanquet's excavations at Praesos. Hazzidakis has pledged Palaikastro to Hogarth if Dörpfeld [Doerpfeld] resigns his claim or fails to take it up, but has forgotten to tell Dörpfeld [Doerpfeld] this.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Georg Karo, thanking Evans for copies of the Times Literary Supplement regarding Wace's work at Mycenae, sharing Evans's reservations about Wace's dating, especially when based on individual sherds in walls and under floors. He recounts some cautionary tales about dates based on examples of these at Tiryns, and agrees with Evans regarding Wace's date for Atreus tholos at Mycenae. However, he disagrees with him about Minoan dynasts at Mycenae, giving his own theories: 1) Greek mainland populated by indigenous stock in Early and Middle Helladic; 2) immigration of "Achaeans" towards the end of Middle Minoan III (chronologically), followed by raiding and plundering of Crete and building of the palace at Mycenae. Such raids may account for burning of palaces at Knossos and Phaistos [Phaistos], with Minoan power not broken, invaders expelled and "renaissance" of Minoan civilisation follows (but no Minoan military or political power on Greek mainland). Suggests that this theory explains the diversity of finds in the Mycenae Shaft Graves, also the differences in architecture, dress and cult between Crete and the mainland, and the absence of written documents and almost total absence of signets on the latter.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Felix von Luschan, who is sorry that Evans will not come to Zindjirli this year; their work for the season is ended, and he is taking a few days in Iskenderun. The season was hard work, but fruitful. Desired bilingual inscriptions were not found, because they only excavated the upper strata of the tell; but nevertheless they found two new palaces with interesting architecture and several first rate sculptures. Hogarth turned up with three of his friends. Von Luschan asks for Hogarth's address. He wants Evans to write to him before he leaves Asia Minor to thank him for his letter from Aintab and to warn him to be very careful about his antiquities when he leaves Turkey. The Turkish Commissioner is a spy, and was in Aintab soon after Hogarth's visit there and found out that they had bought antiquities. Von Luschan is sure that he has already reported this to Constantinople and it is possible that whatever is found with Hogarth will be confiscated. Von Luschan published a few lines in October 1893 on the Assyrian fibulae he saw in London, and also mentioned Evans's fibulae from Tartun and Boeotia; he hopes he sent Evans a copy. He has found several new specimens of the same type this year and bought an unusually large one in Smyrna. He hopes Evans's specimens and those in the British Museum will be published soon. There will be a congress of German and Austrian anthropologists in Innsbruck in August. This is quite near to Millstatt (the von Luschan's Austrian home). He hopes that Evans will be able to take part in the Congress and manage to stay with him and his wife in Millstatt. Asks Evans to give his and his wife's compliments to the Tylors and to the Longmans. He is very anxious to see Longman's book on archery, since he has found an interesting sculpture of an archer dating from the time of Tiglath Pileser III, which shows in detail the mechanism for releasing the arrow. He will send a photograph of this to Longman as soon as he gets permission from the Berlin government to do so.

Peet; people – A.J.B. Wace; Thessaly; people – William Ridgeway; Rome; people – the Hanoumi; vineyard

ABSTRACT: Letter from Duncan Mackenzie, describing removal of troops of European powers from Crete in July 1909. Regarding the new well opened up on the site of the Middle Minoan well at Knossos and minor restoration work in the Palace. Gives a detailed account of departure of British troops from Herakleion harbour. Discusses the delight of "black coats" and their desire for union with Greece, anxiety of foreigners in Herakleion shared by "better thinking" Christians, the departure of Muslims from the island and Turkish ladies accosted and insulted by gang of Christians. Discusses the importunate behaviour of Aristides Ioannides, Mackenzie's and Pernier's intention to visit Tiryns and Mycenae, Wace wanting to take Mackenzie to Thessaly (to convert him to 'Ridgewayism') and the Hanoumi's visit to Knossos and Evans's purchase of vineyard.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Duncan Mackenzie, with the last part missing, regarding Early Minoan I finds from cave at Kakon Oros. Discusses the condition of Villa Ariadne and the Palace, Hazzidakis' responsibility for the neglected condition of the Palace and Wace's advice not to make too much fuss in case this jeopardises Evans' rights to antiquities as proprietor of Knossos. Regarding Kourouniotis' goodwill to England, a test in Loom Weight Area, work on the collection of LM I sherds, Vavourakis' willingness to be Evans' 'plerexousios' (overseer with legal powers) and sheep and goats belonging to Hazzidakis and David doing much damage around the Palace.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Duncan Mackenzie, with the last part missing, regarding photography of Knossos (site and finds) and of finds from cave at Kakon Oros and Nirou Chani. That visitors, such as Wace, Blegen, Renaudin, should see the Palace in its present overgrown condition (weeds etc.) is a source of embarrassment to Mackenzie. The desirability of finding a new Government Guardian for the site, and of preventing David (the current one) from cultivating the areas round the palace and success of earlier tree-planting at Knossos.

ABSTRACT: Letter from John L. Myres, thanking Evans for his letter about some hieroglyphics. Tells Evans that he has spent a fortnight in the western provinces of Crete, and that there is very little to report about the early period there. Has seen some of the engraved stones that Evans describes in his letter, and only three very poor "island stones". Has acquired the best of them for two and a half drachmae, but the others were valued so highly that he left them alone, particularly since they were almost undecipherable. All came from the same neighbourhood, and Myres thinks he can fix on a settlement site that has, however, been inhabited right down to Roman times; and since the soil is very thin it is probably not worth digging. The only other site he has is a large, complex cave close to the sea and difficult to reach. He spent nearly two hours inside it, and got a lot of Mycenaean fragments; but a fill of earth had blocked up the chamber where the bones and whole pots occurred. He suggests these are probably the remains of burials, from the amount of pottery (all Mycenaean, except for some modern scraps close to the entrance). He has got about a dozen pots, including some bügelkänne, others "common-ware" of similar style but different forms. No stones with these, and only a scrap or two of bronze. Adds that by the time he gets there next year there should be a good store of pots waiting for him, "unless the Government gets to hear of it", since "two or three intelligent natives are on the scent" and will save what they find for him. He regrets arriving so late, because a Frenchman, Gaston Arnand (a journalist) has spent the whole summer paying large prices for antiquities and "spoiling the market" everywhere, being especially interested in gems. He goes on to say that "if anyone cares about late Hellenic and Greco-Roman things" there are several large necropoleis still untouched and very rich in gold. A tradesman in Chania has a box full of gold earrings from an experimental excavation at Elyros – and even these are what Arnand didn't want. He goes on that he leaves tomorrow for Rethymno and Candia, "to make acquaintances and watch how the wind blows around Gnosso, for I hope to have a dig there next season, if the influential natives will let me; but they would rather leave the things underground than suffer anything to go by compact to Constantinople." He describes the state of the country: "perfectly quiet except for fanatical assaults, and even these below the average: but one never knows (till afterwards) to whom one is talking". Comments that if there is a bad harvest ("the olives look very thin") there may be trouble in the winter. Mentions that he has promised to help Dr Munro in the Anthropological Section of the British Association (meeting to be held in September in Nottingham), and so will return to England at the end of August. Hopes he will see Evans in Nottingham, or before that in Oxford, to talk over results. After Nottingham he will go to Berlin, and will remain there until the beginning of term; after that he will be in Oxford until December. Says that he expects Hogarth has told Evans that Paton and he (Myres) are quite clear that there was no Mycenaean civilization in the Bodrum peninsula of Caria, and nothing but later (Datcha(?)) pottery in the Knidian peninsula. He believes he has found a similar fragment from Hyrtakina on Crete, where the rest of the pottery is Hellenic. Also, Dr Reichel, who has been through the middle of Caria this summer, told him three weeks ago, that he too had seen nothing Mycenaean there. He therefore takes it that Köhler [Koehler] and Dümmler [Dueemmler] know almost as much about Caria as Thucydides did. He ends by expressing his sympathy with Evans in the loss of his wife in the spring.

SUBJECTS: tholos; ostothecae (larnakes); skulls; stone implements; people – Dr Ittar; people – Spratt (Travels and researches in Crete); Mycenaean amphorae; goat and tree group; Kamares type fish; Mycenaean flowers; cuttlefish; bull's head vase; bügelkanne

(stirrup jars); clay tripod; sword; knife; galopetres (sealstones); porcelain necklace; sites – Chersonesos; Syllogos

ABSTRACT: Letter from John L. Myres, written to Evans by Myres from Candia, when Evans was himself in Crete at this time (cf. Joan Evans, Time and Chance, pg. 319). Says that Dr Ittar (an apothecary in Herakleion and Italian vice-consul there) has just taken him to see the contents of a tholos, including two ostothecae (larnakes), which are for sale. "The proposal is to give something on account to the finder, who will dig again... and make a collection of everything found...and get it all out of the island". The field in question seems to contain several tholoi. The finder will eventually reveal the name of the site, which according to Ittar is associated with a town-site, but not in Spratt's Travels and researches in Crete. Myres then gives a list of the things: 3 Mycenaean amphorae, one with goat and tree group with a Kamares-type fish below, Mycenaean flowers, a "Rhodian" dot rosette motif, and with a cuttlefish on the reverse; one with a naturalistic cuttlefish; one with "half-geometrical" ornament. A bull's head vase; a very globular bügelkanne (stirrup jar); a large clay tripod; sword; knife; two galopetres (sealstones) and a porcelain necklace. Myres says he was asked to value them, and replied "£15 explaining that Myk. vases in themselves did not fetch much; that the goat vase was the only first rate piece; and that the rest got their value mainly from association with it". However, the two fragmentary larnakes, which Myres did not see until afterwards, were not included in this estimate. The find appears authentic, "and the details of position of vases etc. well attested". The finder is currently asking for £1000, and no price has yet been named to him, since Myres didn't want to let Evans "in for a bad bargain". He has told the finder that Evans is "genuine" and "the sort that buys Mycenaean objects". A postscript, added at the top of the first page, reads "this whole affair is top secret ('poly mystiko'), esp. from our friends of the Syllogos".

ABSTRACT: Letter from Édouard Naville, telling Evans that he will be delivering the British Academy Schweich lectures in December 1915, on the text of the Old Testament. Gives Evans a résumé of his views: that the oldest books of the Old Testament were written in cuneiform and afterwards in Aramaic; that the Hebrew of the Bible is the dialect of Jerusalem; very doubtful that the Canaanite alphabet was used for Old Testament writings, because it was a foreign script as Evans has shown by his "brilliant discovery of the Minoan origin of the Canaanite alphabet". Differs from Evans only in believing that the Minoan colonists went from Cyprus first to Tyre and Sidon and only afterwards to the land of the Philistines. Believes that what distinguishes Tyre and Sidon in the Tell el-Amarna period (when they were provincial cities of Palestine) from the same cities in the time of Hiram (when they were powerful maritime cities) is the fact that, by the time of the latter, they had received a colony of Minoans, "those great seafarers whose ships travelled over the Eastern Mediterranean". Not only did Minoan colonisation make Tyre and Sidon into maritime powers but also brought them writing. These ideas "entirely based on [Evans's] great discovery".

Noack, Homerische Paläste; photographs; Northern Portico; large pithoi; House Mosaic; Lower East-West Corridor; Grand Staircase; Hall of the Double Axes; Queen's Megaron; Room of the Stone Bench; East Bastion; Shrine of the Double Axes; Versammlung deutscher Philologen

ABSTRACT: Letter from Ferdinand Noack, thanking Evans for giving Noack permission to use illustrations for his book. Also asking Evans to lend him further photographs of his excavations and finds at Knossos, from which Noack can make slides for a paper to be given at the Versammlung deutscher Philologen in Halle and for a course of lectures. Noack also expresses interest in Evans' view of the 'basilica-like' room.

INSCRIPTIONS: Full letter translation:

Esteemed Herr Professor! I offer you my most heartfelt thanks for your friendly promise which arrived the same day as that of Prof. Halbherr. In my Kleinen Schrift there will now be two illustrations of Knossos, apart from the plan, a general view from the east and one of the small house representations [i.e. the house mosaic] which you yourself published in the Annual. The latter are very valuable small finds. I obtained the Annual no. VIII for the Library here from the bookseller, but I did not obtain a copy of your Report. Should you be kind enough to intend to send it to me, as I understand from your letter, I thank you gratefully for this. Now, however, I approach you as before with a request; it may seem very immodest to you, but it is only a logical consequence of your wonderful and so eminently important finds. I have been asked by Prof. Robert at Halle to prepare a lecture on Knossos and Phaistos for the meeting of German Philologists there, and have moreover begun to prepare a lecture course here on the same subject. For this purpose it would be very valuable to me to make use of the information which Annual vol. VIII contains in the form of photographs. I can have these made directly from the plans and drawings in the book, but not from the views and illustrations of individual finds in the form of photographs. Would you be so very kind as to lend me the photographs themselves for 14 days, so that I can have slides made from them? I would naturally take responsibility for their safety. The following photos are the ones I have in mind:

Annual VIII	fig. 3 Northern Portico
	" 5 Large Pithoi
	fig. 8 Mosaic tablets with Houses
	" 10 " with warriors etc.
	" 16 view in Lower E.W. Corr.
	" 17 view on the staircase
	" 22 " on the Hall of the Double axes
	" 23 " Queen's Megaron
	" 44 " Room of the Stone Bench
	" 69 East Bastion

Finally, if possible, a photographic view of the small important sanctuary, shrine of the double axes, if it exists. I recognise the immodesty of this request, but I very willingly act as propagandist here for these finds of yours and would be delighted to be able to show these most recent results to the German philologists and students who for the most part do not have access to the Annual. Your opinion of the basilica-like room interests me greatly. It means we need no longer wonder whether the prototype of the later basilica really began here. I am very grateful to you for your letter, and especially grateful in anticipation that you will perhaps also accede to the above request – soon, since I would like to get busy on the slides at the beginning of August. It would be very kind of you. Very truly yours, Ferdinand Noack]

ABSTRACT: Letter from Ferdinand Noack, thanking Evans for the report on his latest campaign at Knossos and for his invitation to visit England and Noack's enthusiasm about Evans's Cretan discoveries and his desire to inform German students about them. Discusses his difficulty in obtaining a copy of JRIBA III ser. vol. 10, asking if Evans will put an offprint at his disposal for a short time to show to his students and make slides, and promises to send Evans a copy of his book on Homeric Palaces. Noack also mentions his hypothesis about cult of god of double-axe and goddess Ariadne, confirmed by discovery of 'house chapel' with two horns of consecration and dove goddess. ABSTRACT: Letter from Max Ohnefalsch-Richter, telling Evans that Adolf Furtwängler will send him two of his (Ohnefalsch-Richter's) reports, one written for S. Brown, the other for Col. Warren, both about excavations carried out in a "pre-Phoenician" cemetery near Nicosia (almost certainly Ayia Paraskevi, where Ohnefalsch-Richter excavated 92 tombs in 1884-5, 11 for the Cyprus Museum and 81 for various residents), which he is anxious to have published in England. Mention of a jar that Ohnefalsch-Richter has procured for the University of Oxford (= 1885.366: Cypro-Achaic barrel jug; see Ohnefalsch-Richter, "On a Phoenician vase found in Cyprus", Journal of Hellenic Studies 5 (1884), 102-4). Mention of "Watkins-Warren scandal" and his part in it over discovery of temenos of Apollo (at Phrangissa, near Tamassos), terracotta figures, statues, bilingual inscriptions etc. Also mention of a "partial judgement" in the District Court in which Ohnefalsch-Richter's "honour has suffered".

ABSTRACT: Copy of a Letter from William R. Paton, which was sent to The Athenaeum by Paton and forwarded (at his request) to Evans as Keeper of the Ashmolean Museum. It bewails the unfortunate effects of the proposed new legislation covering Cretan antiquities and the unenforceability of such stringent laws, pointing to the effects of the almost identical 1899 Greek antiquities legislation, suggesting that the Governments of the Four Powers should intervene to secure a more liberal policy on Crete. Paton makes a reference to Spyridon Lambros' article in The Athenaeum no. 3747 (19 August 1899), p. 264.

ABSTRACT: Letter from John Pendlebury, describing Pendlebury's journeys and explorations in eastern Crete (including sites originally noted by Evans): from Elounda via Oxia (Naxos?) and Dreros to Neapolis (where he met Mercy Money-Coutts and Hutchinson); to Vrakhasi (where road cutting has shown up a Middle Minoan II-III site); to Omalos (a few of the "castles" seen); to Tsermiada; Trapeza cave (Early Minoan II to Middle Minoan I, Middle Minoan III to Late Minoan I and Hellenic sherds) which Pendlebury intends to apply for a permit to excavate as it seems to supply the evidence lacking in the Psychro cave; Ponta (Archaic site seen by Evans); Castello (Minoan site in Evans' diary); Marmaketo (Middle Minoan and Late Minoan I site noted by Dawkins); Psychro (fine Early Minoan I? jug found, which Pendlebury tried to get for the Museum; and stone axe and bead of "Mochlos" stone); Kaminaki (Roman site); via Erganos to Vianno; Karakoviglia (site to northwest of Vianno mentioned by Evans; nothing there); Korakia (just below Karakoviglia, with Archaic sherds); Roman site to south of Vianno; Kandiliora (Late Minoan I, walls and sherds); to Arvi (late Roman site and a Middle Minoan III to Late Minoan I site above to northwest at Komitas); could not find site of Evans' early cist graves, but Spratt's conjecture of site of temple of Zeus Arbios under modern church just above Arvi confirmed by local builder; Pendlebury twisted his ankle, and had to give in and ride a mule for the first time in Greece; to Aliko (west of Arvi, Middle Minoan III to Late Minoan I sherds and walls); Trokhari (inland on way to Kerato, with a curious stone whorl like an Ionic volute, also sherds); large cave at Kerato (some Early Minoan and Middle Minoan III to Late Minoan I pottery); a few Late Minoan I and some Hellenic and many Roman sherds on summit at Kerato; returned via Vianno and Embaros to Knossos; Pendlebury's ankle now better and he intends to climb Ida from Krousonas and to descend to Amari, where Manolaki assures them there are plentiful antiquities. Also hopes to make a trip to Mokhos which he found 2 years ago, and to Krasi and Lasithi via the sites mentioned in Evans' diary; hopes to have another look at the Trapeza cave. Ps – regarding remark of Manolaki's to effect that all archaeologists are "Mr Evans' men".

ABSTRACT: Letter from John Pendlebury, describing travels and explorations in Central Crete, including the Amari valley: via Knossos to Nidha plain; Idaean cave needs redigging; large figurine said to have been found at top of Ida (Pendlebury found what he thought were Middle Minoan III sherds which turned out to be modern); down to Vizari; Manolaki went round by Kamares and found new Roman sites at Ardakhtos and Kouroutes; Roman site south of Vizari; Minoan sherds found in walls of Byzantine church at Hellenika where larnax burial found earlier. Roman site by Asomatos Monastery; Middle Minoan III cemetery site at Pistagi; Late Minoan III pots from Bagaliana seen by Manolaki at Mironas; Roman site south of Mironas; Hellenistic sherds and lamps to west of Mironas in road cutting; cave above (Muigospilion) and field (stis Sellidos tin Sellan) with human bones but no sherds found in an illicit excavation said to have been conducted by Marinatos; Moskhes (late Roman site); Hellenes (cave, but Early Minoan houses filled in). Pendlebury and Manolaki in Gerakari district: Ayios Onuphrios above Mesonisia (traces of walls and what looks like Early Minoan plaster, sherds indeterminate; Late Minoan III figurines and a large double axe found nearby); cave above Kokleno Diti; large site at Psares which extends as far as place called "Lappa" (a short way from ancient Lappa); Ayios Ioannes; Palaioklisia. From Gerakari north to Patsos: Hermes Kranaios cave and smaller one below it with Late Minoan III sherds; Middle Minoan III cave at Khalara; Roman site at Kephalia; Early Minoan jug from Trapeza near Arkadhi Monastery; Veni (coin with head of Zeus); Kastri, west of Padanasos, Roman sherds and earlier walls; at Myrthios on east slope of Vrysinas Roman sherds; below Selli large Roman site; wall painting in church of Ayios Ioannis recently damaged by children; at Ornithe, on south slope of Vrysinas, Archaic site with fine walls and part of relief pithos; Early Minoan stone axes and a Late Minoan I vase also from here in Rethymno Museum. South of Kares near Ambelakia: Roman site at Livadhos; Late Minoan site at sta Mandrakia, overlooking the pass south. At Atsipadhes, Mycenaean figurines of Tau type; at Kastelli Monopari traces of Greek walls below Byzantine fort walls. Pendlebury has clocked up a total of 98 new sites in two years; intends to do one more trip to reach 100 – up Dikte to the summit and down to Kalamavka, and via Mescheri up to the summit of Aphenidi Kavousi.

ABSTRACT: Letter from Paul Perdrizet, talking about his visit to Knossos and Herakleion Museum in September 1902. He has just returned from Syria where he has been studying, on behalf of the Commission du Corpus Inscriptionum Semiticorum, the question of the Phoenician inscriptions found in 1900 and 1901 in the foundations of the temple of Echmoun at Saïda. Reminds Evans that he has undertaken the task of organising the teaching of archaeology at the University of Nancy (starting with "Greece before Homer"), and of putting together collections of photographs, slides, maps, plans, books, casts etc. for this purpose. Asks Evans if he can send him: 1) casts of a selection of his Mycenaean and Minoan engraved gems in the Ashmolean; 2) casts of various objects from Knossos not in England (stone amphora, rosette frieze, relief bull's head, marble lion's head, octopus weight).

DATE: 01/05/1893

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1 Letter: 4pp (1 sheet folded)

SUBJECTS: sites – Athens; tholos or chamber tomb; sites – Kara, Mt Hymettus; sites – Spata

ABSTRACT: Letter from Athanasios Rhusopoulos, which gives information about an illicitly excavated tholos or chamber tomb, probably that at Kara, Mt. Hymettus, objects from which were bought for the Museum by Evans from Rhusopoulos in 1893 (cf. AJE/1/1/1/137/2 Letter from Athanasios Rhusopoulos). Rhusopoulos asks that Evans not name him in any possible publication of the grave or "the gems". A postscript says that a sketch is enclosed. This is no longer extant, but might perhaps have formed the basis of the sketch appended to AE 306, etc., in the 1896-1908 Aegean accessions register.

SUBJECTS: sites – Ras Shamra; Aegean; sites – Crete; Palace of Minos, vol. 4; Zafer Papoura Tomb 1; Prehistoric Tombs of Knossos; Minoan relations with Ras Shamra

ABSTRACT: Letter from Claude Frédéric-Armand Schaeffer, telling Evans that Schaeffer's new Ras Shamra finds have so much to do with the Aegean that he sometimes thinks he is working in Crete. Mentions the section of Zafer Papoura Tomb 1 published in the Palace of Minos, vol. 4, p. 775, and points out that this very important tomb is not published in detail in Prehistoric Tombs of Knossos and asks if Evans has a plan of the tomb and a longitudinal section. Schaeffer would be glad to discuss this tomb in his study of Ras Shamra and its Minoan relations and asks if Evans has received his letter of 23rd September together with two photographs. [Note: this letter was found in Evans's copy of The Tomb of the Double Axes, etc.]

SUBJECTS: A.J. Evans article in Journal of Hellenic Studies 14 (1894), 270 ff.?; inscriptions; sites – Knossos; masons' marks; labyrinthine structure; American Archaeological Society; people – Federico Halbherr; tombs of Mycenaean type; Crete; Mycenaean civilisation; Daedalian art

ABSTRACT: Letter from William James Stillman, who is anxious to see Evans's Cretan study and the new discovery of inscriptions. Stillman tells him that he found masons' marks at Knossos and asks if any of them are Evans's. He reported on the search he made at Knossos to the American Archaeological Society in 1881. He is delighted to hear that Halbherr has discovered two tombs of the Mycenaean type in Crete, and is convinced that what is now recognised as the Mycenaean civilisation was really of Cretan origin.

ABSTRACT: Letter from A. J. B. Wace. Refers to Evans' proofs, Xanthoudidis' new tholos tombs, with their EM I-II pottery and to the relationship of their Minoan wares to Cycladic and 'patterned Urfirnis' pottery, the ivory finds and the little gold statuette of a snake goddess bought for Candia Museum. Discusses Kourouniotis friendliness and Stais anti-venizelist sympathies. Discusses young Gilliéron's drawings for Evans, including tracing of griffin on pot reconstructed by Wace from sherds found by Schliemann at Mycenae, Blegen's plans to go to Corinth soon and to Wace's intention of spending a few days there to see the pottery and to explore prehistoric sites nearby. Talks about the literature Leaf's "Homer in History", Dragendorff's article on Tiryns, Wace's and Thompson's Prehistoric Thessaly. Discusses three production centres of Urfirnis: Crete, the Cyclades, and the Morea and South-Central Greece; to Egyptian influence on Crete and to Cretan influence on the Cyclades and Greek mainland (patterned Urfirnis white on black of Orchomenos and Haghia Marina). Also discusses Minyan and Ephyrean pottery and their relationship with Minoan pottery, the Anatolian origin of Minyan pottery and Forsdyke's and Childe's ignorance of the transformation of Minyan into undecorated Mycenaean. Wace's desires to dig at Lerna, Copais, Lianokladhi, and Helos. Finally talks about Venizelos and the Greek political situation.

ABSTRACT: Letter from A. J. B. Wace. Refers to Gilliéron's reproduction of Knossos Ivory and Palace of Minos vol. I. Talks about Wace's release from the British Legation and his hope to work on Schliemann's pottery from Mycenae, his intention to dig at Mycenae next spring, provided that funds are available (we shall be able to do something – if only a little in order to state out our claim in the site). Discusses the employment of a British School architect, Hazzidakis' and Keramopoulos' latest publications, Wace's taking the Federation of British Industries to exhibitions and Acropolis Museum, Dawkins's Bywater Professorship at Oxford, Mackenzie's cases and bulbs for the School's garden.

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 1 Letter: 4pp (2 sheets)

SUBJECTS: people – Leeds; site – Al Mina; sites – Tell Atchana; Minoan trade

ABSTRACT: Letter from Leonard Woolley, providing additional information to report to Evans and Leeds. Pryce thinks that more Greek pottery found at harbour than any colony, with possible exception of Naukratis. First class stuff, 9th-4th century. Can't find earliest part of settlement but have found site of later settlement. Prospecting inland at Bozhoyuk, for 2 days and now sondages at Tell Atchana. Middle Minoan III sherds after only three days and a sword. Can't start on mound because there is still work at Al Mina and malaria season approaching, but has proved Minoan contact with interior and wanted to let Evans know immediately.

Hazzidakis

ABSTRACT: Letter from Stephanos Xanthoudides, thanking Evans for sending him a copy of Cretan Pictographs and Prae-Phoenician Script. Commiserates with him over the obstinacy and unreasonableness of the proprietors of Kephala in out-manoeuvring him in his bid to acquire Kephala. Gives him a detailed account of the chamber tomb at Ligortino (Moskato) and its contents (including 3 larnakes), which he received by word of mouth a few days after its discovery (around Christmas 1894) by the Ottoman villagers. Tells Evans that he has acquired 25 three-sided steatite prisms on behalf of the Syllogos a short while ago, and suggests that if he requires wax impressions of these he should ask Hazzidakis.

Mitt.* 34 (1909); Ashmolean Museum; prices

ABSTRACT: Letter from Émile Gilliéron (fils) to David George Hogarth (as Keeper of the Ashmolean), saying that he is continuing to make moulds of the most interesting pieces of Mycenaean art, and that this year he has made painted plaster replicas in the National Museum, Athens and Candia (Herakleion) Museum, of which he encloses photographs [photographs nos. 5-7 now reunited with letter; whereabouts of nos. 1-4 unknown]. These are painted vases from Gournia (nos. 1 and 4), published by H. Boyd-Hawes, from Zakro (nos. 2 and 3) published by Hogarth, and from Kakovatos (nos. 5, 6, 7) published by Kurt Müller. The prices he is asking the Ashmolean are as follows: no. 1, 150 francs; no. 2, 100 francs; nos. 3 and 4, 60 francs each; no. 5, 350 francs; no. 6, 300 francs; no. 7, 350 francs.

[Note: It does not look as though any of these replicas were purchased by the Museum at this time. There are no replicas of vases from Kakovatos in the Museum. However, there are replicas of 2 pots from Zakro (1923.668, 1923.669), both published by Hogarth in JHS 22, pl.

XII:1,3, which may well be the same as the replicas referred to here. These were presented to the Museum by A.J. Evans. There are a total of 4 replicas of vases from Gournia (1923.672, 1923.673, 1923.675, 1923.682 - all illustrated by H. Boyd-Hawes et al.), plus two others (1923.674, 1923.675 - also illustrated by Boyd-Hawes) which were loaned to Birmingham in 1953. These were also presented to the Museum by Evans.]

AJE/1 Finding Aid (Last updated: 25/01/2024)

DATE: n.d. 1910s (?)

TITLE:

AUTHOR(S): Evans

SUBJECTS: Knossos; Temple Repositories; etc.

TYPE OF DOCUMENT: MS

ABSTRACT: 27 pages on 27 sheets (numbered 47-73). Early draft of The Palace of Minos vol. I. Some of the sentences are identical to The Palace of Minos vol. I p. 488 ff., but from page 53 (of the MS) the MS and The Palace of Minos do not coincide. The pages (written in ink) have been numbered in pencil (numbering starts at 47, and stops at 73). They seem to deal mostly with finds from the Temple Repositories.

Item

DATE: 1920s (?), possibly around 1925

TITLE: Aegean End of Transit Route

AUTHOR(S): Evans

SUBJECTS: routes; Crete; etc.

TYPE OF DOCUMENT: MS

ABSTRACT: 10 pages on 10 sheets (numbered but not continuous). Possibly early draft of chapter on 'Transit road from Knossos across central Crete to port on Libyan Sea' in The Palace of Minos vol. II (1928), 60-92. (Ibid., 62 footnote 1, Evans mentions that in 1923-24 he undertook a journey to explore this 'transit route'). This notes does not seem to be part of the MS of this chapter, but the content is very similar.

TITLE: Treasures of precious metals: oxheads and vases.

AUTHOR(S): Evans

SUBJECTS: metal vases; treasures; Crete; Knossos; frescoes; Egypt; Mycenae; Linear B tablets; etc.

TYPE OF DOCUMENT: MS

ABSTRACT: 9 pages on 9 sheets. Not MS of part of The Palace of Minos vol. II (1928), but the content of these pages is very close to parts of PM, cf., e.g., the tablet sketched on p. 5 of MS and PM II, 633. Basically the MS discusses metal objects inventoried in Linear B tablets; depicted in Egyptian frescoes; and found at Mycenae.
